BANKERS

AND DEALERS IN

Government Securities,

No. 5 Nassau Street, New York,
November 8, 1869.

To our Customers and Correspondents

The surprising development of our national resources and the rapidity with which the government is now enabled to reduce the national debt, by weekly purchases, render it apparent that the time is approaching when the Five Twenty bonds may be funded at not over four or four and a half per cent. interest.

Meanwhile their high price, as compared with other classes of securities paying an equal rate of interest, is leading to general inquiry for more profitable forms of investment in which money may be safely invested.

During the war the necessities and peril of the government, and the consequent cheapness of its securities, rendered them so attractive that, from this cause, combined with the patriotic faith of the people in their safety, they absorbed almost the entire floating capital of the country, and diverted attention from other classes of securities which had before been deemed sufficiently conservative and sound to meet the wants of the most cautious investors.

The government is no longer a borrower. It no longer needs the country's capital, but deserves gratefully and honorably to repay it.

The rapid accumulation of capital for investment, and the reduction of the national debt and improvement of the national credit—rendering it certain that hereafter but a comparatively low rate of interest can be derived from investment in government bonds—is compelling the search for other safe and well guarded channels into which capital not employed in business may wisely flow.

The enterprises of Peace, no less needful in their time and place, for the common welfare, than were the waste and cost of War, now call for the capital which the government no longer needs and offer for its use a remuneration which the government need no longer pay, and in some cases, a security as stable and enduring as the faith of the nation itself.

The desire to capitalize the premium which will now be realized upon Five Twenty bonds, and which a material decline in Gold toward par, and the ability of the Government to fund them at a lower rate of interest, may at any time extinguish is felt by many holders who desire some satisfactory assurance as to which of the many lower priced securities in the market would afford the necessary safety to justify an exchange.

The applications for information and advice which are addressed to us daily, show how universal is the desire for this assurance, as to what forms of investment more profitable than Government securities at present market rates, are entitled to the confidence of investors.

The pressure of this want has led us to feel the importance of directing our own attention as bankers, our large experience, and our facilities for obtaining reliable information—to the work of supplying it in some measure, and to offer the results of our inquiries to those who may be disposed to confide in our good faith and judgment.

We are unwilling to offer to our friends and the public anything which according to our best judgment is not as secure as the national obligations themselves, with which we have hitherto principally identified ourselves.

Since closing the GREAT CENTRAL PACIFIC RAILROAD LOAN, which meets all these requirements, we have carefully examined many others, but have found no other which would fully do so, until the following was placed in our hands.

FIRST MORTGAGE

SIX PER CENT, GOLD BONDS

OF THE

Western Pacific R. R. Co.,

OF CALIFORNIA.

The Western Pacific Rail Road connecting Sacramento with San Francisco, furnishes the final link in the extraordinary fact of an unbroken line of rail from the shore of the Atlantic to that of the Pacific.

It is 150 miles in length, including a short branch and it will be the connecting its chief cities, and traversing the garden of the rich and growing State of California, receiving, in addition to an immense and lucrative local traffic, the through business over the Union and Central Pacific Railroads—between the Eastern States and Sacramento.

METROPOLITAN LINE,

It is completed, fully equipped, and in successful operation, and its earnings in October, the first full month, amounted to $105,000 in coin. The net earnings will, by a moderate estimate, amount to $400,000 per annum, in coin, while the interest on its Bonds will be but $168,000.

The value of the property and franchises is no less than

and the amount of the mortgage is $2,800,000.

The bonds are of $1,000 each, have thirty years to run, and will be sold at

Ninety, and Accrued Interest, in currency. They are made payable, PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST, IN GOLD COIN, in the city of New York. Coupons due January and July 1st.

The near approach of the time when the United States can probably fund the greater portion of its Six-per-cent debt, is naturally causing inquiry for other forms of investment, which will afford satisfactory security with the same rate of interest. THE WESTERN PACIFIC RAILROAD FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS must have an immense advantage over all other securities based upon merely local or unconnected railroad, and may be held with as much confidence as government bonds, or as first-class mortgages on New York City property.

The loan is small in amount. Its claims to confidence are apparent. It will be rapidly taken. Bonds will be delivered as the orders are received. Government bonds received at their full market value in exchange.

FISK & HATCH, Bankers.

We buy and sell Government Bonds, receive the coupons as they fall due, collect dividends and interest on all classes of securities, and allow liberal rates on deposits.

The total vote here for two days is 1294. As far as heard from the election throughout the State has passed off quietly.

In Cooke county the vote in two days reached 910.

In McClellan county the colored majority is 260.

In Falls county the voters are splitting, but Davis is probably ahead.

Registration is not yet completed in Nevarro county, consequently no election is going on there.

Haynes is certainly elected to Congress. Hamilton's friends claim the State by 30,000.

Eyster left the saloon, followed by Pfeiffer, who knocked him down. Eyster arose, drew a revolver and shot him, instantly killing the ruffian.

The Dominion Legislature

TORONTO, Dec 2

In the Legislature last night Mr Blake followed up the late Nova Scotia resolution by moving as a necessary consequence an address to the Crown, praying that by an act of the Imperial Legislature it might be rendered impossible for the Parliament of Canada to disturb the financial relations established by the act 1867 as between Canada and the several Provinces. Mr Blake supported his motion in a speech of some length. He criticised the course taken by the government on a former evening. A debate of a very animated character took place

Mr Clark moved an amendment declaring the proposed address inexpedient.

On a discussion the amendment was defeated by 67 to 12.

The original motion was then carried.

A committee was at once appointed, their report brought in and adopted and the address agreed to and ordered to be engrossed in due form.

This reminds us of a capital story told of the late Douglas Jerrold and Mr Reach—both among the ablest contributors to the Punch of their day. They had just been introduced to each other; and at dinner Mr. Jerrold several times addressed his new friend, calling him Reech. At last the latter said: "My name is not Reech, Mr. Jerrold, but Re-ach" (pronouncing it as if spelled Re-ash.) Nothing could suppress Mr. Jerrold's mischief for long; and when the dessert came on the table Jerrold politely inquired, pointing to a plate of the fruit, "Mr. Re-ach, will you have a Pear?"—Boston Times.

JOHN H. LYNDE, - - PROPRIETOR.

FRIDAY, DEC. 3, 1869.

Obstacles to a Reduction of Interest.

There is some force in the argument of the Chicago Tribune, that our Government cannot reduce the rate of interest on its bonds until its credit is increased. But the argument is temporary, and has little force for the future, as the Tribune seems to suppose. Its idea is, that a loan to replace our present debt at a rate of four per cent. would not in reality make the interest paid or sacrificed less, because a corresponding reduction must be made in the principal of the security when put upon the market in competition with other paper. That is true just so long as our credit is not improving; you cannot economize and pay off the debt by an arbitrary reduction of interest, because you cannot force the creditor to take our securities. The price of our paper or the interest, or both, is at the mercy of the creditor to a certain extent.

But the supposition that we shall not be able to fund our debt at a lower rate of interest is based upon a wrong idea of our financial prospect, and we are surprised to see a Republican journal encouraging it. The credit of the government is steadily improving, and there is every prospect that under the straightforward policy of the administration, it will continue to increase. The public confidence is much greater than one year ago in the ability and willingness to pay our public debt in good faith. Taking advantage of this condition, the question has naturally arisen, whether we could not do well to attempt to issue a new security with a long time to run at a lower rate of interest, in the hope that it may supersede all other forms of debt without any material sacrifice in the principal. Would not such a move give renewed confidence? Would not the length of time to run of a safe investment, warrant a reduction of interest to those who are in search of safe permanent investments? Would not a four per cent. bond be just what the business community desire for the purpose of virtually supplying cash at interest instead of simple bank deposits without interest? Of course there is nothing certain in a financial scheme of this sort, but it does seem that this argument against the attempt to reduce our debt interest is only suitable to a waning and not an improving credit. We presume no definite policy has been marked out by the administration, but such a scheme would seem plausible.

There is another point in this question of credit and interest which has influenced, and will continue to influence, our finances till a quietus is put upon its political cause. We refer to it once more now because the New York World, in copying the argument of the Tribune, while taking the correct ground that it is merely for the time and is not true as a permanent idea with our government; —that, in fact, a lower rate of interest than the money market establishes is possible with a government—reiterates the old Democratic fallacies in relation to our want of credit, and conceals the real cause. It takes the ground that the chief cause of low prices in United States securities is the amount of our debt, and thinks that if our debt were but five hundred million, a four per cent. bond would be worth par to-day. Every fair-minded man doubts that. There is no mistaking that we should come nearer to that standing than for the past five years, but we could not hope to reach it until the confidence of capitalists abroad is assured by a unanimity at home upon an honest policy. The World very innocently asks—"Why is it that, in the same city of London, people will pay 93 for three per cent. English consols, when United States six per cent. bonds can be bought for 84?" And it as innocently but not as fully answers: "It is not that any man in his senses prefers 3½ per cent. interest to 7 per cent.; but because the certainty of the lower rates is preferred to the possibility of the higher." That is true. But it fails to tell us why this certainty is not as much in our favor as in that of England. There is no pretence that our Government is not able to pay its debt. There is every evidence that no country in the world is possessed of more facilities for liquidating double its liabilities. But of what avail is ability without will? A man's credit may be good according to his money value, but as compared with one who is not only able to pay but willing to pay honestly, principal and interest, without delay or discount, his credit may suffer. The present administration and the Republican party are in favor of sustaining the contracts of the Government in letter and spirit. But this is a government of the people, and threats of repudiation if the Democracy should come into power, and the fear that they might succeed in their designs, renders our credit uncertain abroad, and that governs the price of our securities at home. When the World and the Democratic party conclude to espouse the honest policy of paying our debts according to contract, our credit may be as good as that of England. Then we may fund the debt without trouble at four per cent. and be able to compete with any other securities in any market. The World says "the people expect and insist upon a lower rate of interest on the public debt," which is true, but it is not true that "they will justly charge the Government with incapacity if measures are not adopted to hasten that result." It is too late in the day to charge the present administration with incapacity or unwillingness to reduce the debt and interest both. They cannot accomplish miracles; they cannot make the foreign capitalists believe in a policy which a great party is constantly attempting to destroy by cries of repudiation. But uphold them by making an honest policy universal in the country, and our financial success and stability are at once and permanently assured.

The Tammany chieftains met their country brothers of the Democracy of New York at Albany the other day for the purpose of making an amicable division of the prospective spoils. Mr. Sweeney disclaimed for Tammany any disposition to rob the country of its just share of plunder, and the affair was quite a love feast.—It was no doubt pleasant to the participants, but we fancy the honest portion of the people of that great State must have experienced a strange sensation when the telegraph informed them that the robbers of New York city had gone up to Albany to provide for the distribution of their money. Fancy yourself captured on the high sea, and the pirates holding a council as to what portion of your treasure should be allowed to carry you home, and you may perhaps approach their condition of mind.

It appears by official report that the aggregate amount of [illegible] during the year ending June [illegible],000, of which received Baltimore [illegible] $14,000,000; Boston and Charlestown, [illegible],000; New York, [illegible]; [illegible] nearly $16,000,000; San Francisco, $18,000,000.

The following were the receipts from customs for the week ending Nov. 27, at the principal ports: Boston, $622,966; New York, $1,2[illegible],000; Philadelphia, $129,000; Baltimore, $168,294.

A St. John dispatch says the formal opening of the Western extension Railroad from St. John to the American boundary, took place Wednesday, as anticipated. A train left St. John at 9 o'clock A. M., with 200 invited guests. On its return a grand entertainment was given. The Fredericton branch has also been opened for traffic.

The World surely moves. Reverdy Johnson made a speech at the St. Andrew's supper in Baltimore Tuesday night, in which he asserted that "Among the many blessings that the good God has bestowed upon us, chief among them to exalt us among nations, and to command us to His favor, is that He has instructed His children in this country to abolish slavery."

Movements, it is said, are on foot in Tennessee and North Carolina to neutralize the operation of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution of the United States, with the view to depriving colored men of the privileges these amendments provide, and several of the radical papers in the South are calling on Congress for guarantees which shall protect the minority in a reconstructed State from such changes in its organic law as will endanger the great principle of equal rights to all men.

THE TARIFF. A Washington dispatch to the Boston Journal says the House Committee of Ways and Means are hard at work on the Tariff, as they must report by bill or otherwise within a fortnight. They started on the basis of a reduction of twenty millions of dollars per annum at existing rates, but it is not improbable that the increased importations, resulting from reduced duties, will make up the deficiency. Thus far, the only perfected work has been the placing of numerous articles on the free list.

A motion was made to place coal on the free list, but it was informally laid over at the request of Judge Kelly, of Pennsylvania.

Thus far there has been but a faint demand from New England manufacturers for free coal, while the c[illegible]l men of Pennsylvania and Maryland cl[illegible] for a reduction of the existing duties. [illegible]

GEORGIA, according to the Washington correspondent of the New York Times, is doomed to be remanded back to her condition under the reconstruction acts because she has not in good faith complied with their provisions. He adds:

I have yet to meet a single Republican member of Congress who does not deem this the shortest and most effective way of compelling this recalcitrant State and people to respect the fundamental law as it now stands, and to abide permanently by the results of the war. It is a matter of record here to-day that Georgia is the worst State in the South with which the revenue and law officers of the Government have to deal; there is more disregard and violation of law; more contempt for the authority of the Government; less safety for those whose duty it is to execute the law, than in any other State in the Union. And there is no hope of a better condition of things until the backbone of the present anomalous status is broken, and General Terry is made the absolute Government of the State, and a genuine reconstruction is begun under his administration. The opinion that this should be speedily done prevails, I am satisfied, with a majority of the Cabinet, and if measures to this end are enacted by Congress they will receive the prompt approval of the Executive. The people of Georgia had, therefore, better begin to look the matter square in the face. They will find that Congress will not be trifled with, and that the policy here foreshadowed will be substantially enacted into law very early in the session.

THE MCFARLAND-RICHARDSON TRAGEDY. Mr. McFarland's friends tell a little different story from that generally received, and may probably be taken with a grain of allowance. It is as follows:

"McFarland, who recently assassinated A. D. Richardson in New York, is of Irish descent, and was a graduate of Dartmouth College in the class of '49. After his graduation he spent some time in travelling in Europe, and subsequently studied law and settled in Nashua, N. H. Here he became acquainted with the young lady who afterwards became his wife. She was a poor girl, but exceedingly prepossessing and attractive. Soon after the marriage he removed to Madison, Wisconsin, where he prospered in business and accumulated quite a handsome property, which he afterwards lost by misfortune. He then went to New York city, where himself and wife became connected in some way with the New York Tribune establishment. While employed upon the Tribune, Mr. and Mrs. McFarland became acquainted with Richardson and the three boarded together some time. Several years since McFarland told Hon. M. D. Lane, who was a class mate, that up to the time of his wife's acquaintance with Mr. Richardson, they had lived together in the utmost harmony, but that Richardson had alienated his wife's affections and thereby rendered the lives of both unspeakably miserable. Mr. Lane says that McFarland was passionately devoted to the two beautiful children to which his wife had given birth, and thinks the dreadful act he committed was perpetrated in a moment of phrenzy, occasioned by the wrongs which he had embittered his life and made shipwreck of his domestic happiness. Mr. Lane says that while in college Mr. McFarland was a young man of correct habits and generous sympathies."

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE. Postmaster General Creswell has informed several members of Congress, who have called at the Post Office Department, that he shall, in his forthcoming report, show the injustice of the franking privilege, which he regards as an abuse which demoralizes the postal service, and virtually renders it insolvent. It is true that Congress annually appropriates $700,000 for the postal conveyance of franked matter, but a careful investigation of the amount of the postage rates of this matter, shows that they are over $5,000,000. A large amount of this is unquestionably illegally franked, for the franking privilege is exercised by over 31,000 persons, and it is impossible to detect frauds. The Postmaster General is positive that the only way to remedy this wrong is to abolish the franking privilege entirely, and to have all officials supplied with postage stamps at the public expense. Whether the members of Congress will relinquish this privilege, so useful for communication with their constituents, is doubtful; neither is it certain that the million dollars now annually paid for the free delivery of letters in less than fifty cities is not as great an act of injustice toward the people in other parts of the Union as is the franking privilege.

They do things queerly in New York. When the Jury retired in the case of Allen the panel thief, a rumor was circulated that they stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal, and that the latter had been bribed to hold out a month if necessary. At eight o'clock there being no prospect for a verdict, the few reporters vanished. Shortly after another rumor came from the jury room. It seems that one of the eleven who favored the conviction of Allen, irritated by the persistency and stubbornness of the juror who stood for acquittal, charged that the latter had been bribed. This insult the juror for acquittal repelled with indignation, styling the other juror a liar. Hot words followed, and finally, both having lost temper, a fight ensued, lasting until the other jurors separated the combatants. It is said that the "not guilty" juror came out second best, and received a sound thrashing. It was not a long time after this event that the jury informed the officer who had charge of them that they had agreed. Two [illegible] were [illegible] in [illegible] the Judge, and the prisoner was declared guilty. Mr. William F. Howe moved for [illegible] of judgment, and a [illegible] of sentence until [illegible]nesday. Both motions were denied. The prisoner was then sentenced to [illegible] years at hard labor in the State Prison.

THE INCOME TAX. The special dispatch to the Boston Advertiser says:

"There is a reasonable ground for believing that the income tax will be reduced at the coming session of Congress. It expires by limitation next spring, but nobody here seriously supposes it is to be wholly dropped. The Secretary of the Treasury in his report will probably recommend its re-enactment at five per cent. on all income above one thousand dollars, and Commissioner Delano is understood to hold similar views, while Special Commissioner Wells is reported as favoring a three per cent. rate, with less deductions than are now given. This difference of judgment among leading officials will strengthen the difference among Congressmen. The report of Commissioner Delano will show the receipts of last year to have been about $34,500,000, an increase of $2,500,000 over the previous year, an increase of more than $8,000,000 over the estimate of a year ago. The receipts of 1867 were $57,000,000; but the returns of this year, considering the changes made that year in the law, are greater in proportion than those of 1867, and the argument of Congressmen who favor a reduction is that a three per cent. tax honestly assessed and collected will yield about as much revenue as we now get. The present indications are that a three per cent. rate will finally be adopted.

THE UTILITY OF PARTIES. Wendell Phillips makes the following suggestive remarks on this subject:

"Man has been defined to be the animal that uses tools. The finest tool he has ever invented is a government. Associations, parties, organization in some way, are his tools for any special piece of work. The history of free States is full of the records of such organizations. They have a double result. They do the work aimed at; and besides, they educate the hand which uses them. The hand is not only "subdued to what it works in"; it also is trained by what it works with. The veterans of one moral movement are the initiators and best workers of another. Anti-Masonry was one of the first popular movements outside of the regular parties. It paved the way for the temperance enterprise. Together they prepared the public and trained the workmen for the anti-slavery cause. Each one of these efforts overlapped its successor. A fitting regard to economy of means forbids the throwing away of valuable machinery, which, one object accomplished, may be turned toward another, perhaps as important as the first. This is the superiority of parties and governments over associations pledged to the cure of one special evil. The first may be applied successfully to one object after another, economizing means and keeping their veterans always at work. They resemble a standing army, always ready for any necessary enterprise."

These observations will sufficiently explain how it is that the Republican party, originally formed for resisting the spread of slavery, has been continued to meet the wants growing out of that issue, long since obsolete, and that, too, without losing the identity of its organization. Its mission is yet just as urgent and indispensable as it ever was.

SPANISH BUTCHERIES IN CUBA. The cane fields of a sugar estate called La Ferruma, half way between Bamba and Roque, two little towns in the jurisdiction of Colon, Cuba, a few hours by railroad from Havana, have been the scene of one of the last and most shocking of Spanish butcheries.—Nine peaceful, wealthy gentlemen, two boys among them, were dragged to Colon before the Lieutenant-Governor of the place, there submitted to a kind of drumhead trial, and after being compelled to ride through the streets of the town amid the hooting of the Spaniards, mounted on the bare backs of their own horses, the tails and manes of which were previously cut off, were taken to the lonely spot above mentioned and first mutilated and then shot down one by one, and thrown into a ditch by a party of drunken Chapelgorris. These horrible murders in cold blood became known through the boasting of the assassins, and the news spread like wildfire to Cardenas, Matanzas and Havana, in which places the murdered men have many relations and devoted friends. It is difficult to depict the feeling they have created. Far from subduing or intimidating, they have still more highly excited among both the men and women of Cuba the spirit of resistance to Spanish rule.

A year ago, in responding to an invitation to attend the reunion of the armies of the West, Horatio Seymour gracefully said of Gen. Grant:

"Foremost among you will be the distinguished General, now at the head of our armies, who won the first laurels as one of the leaders of the armies of the West. His election to the office of President of the United States bears witness to the fact that, in addition to regard for his other merits, the patriotic services of the soldier are held in honorable and grateful remembrance by the American people."

The President, it is said, has become warmly interested in the proposed ship canal across the Isthmus of Panama, the construction of which he would like to have handed down to posterity as one of the achievements of his administration.—A naval vessel has been detailed to carry out a surveying expedition and a full company of one hundred marines, commanded by a captain, will accompany the expedition as escort to and for protection of the surveying party from the Indians or hostilities from any source, as the country to be traversed is in a very unsafe condition.

ROMANCE IN MISSIONARY LIFE. Two or three years ago says the New York Commercial, a wealthy young man of Paterson, N. J., was ordained as a missionary and left for India, where he devoted not only his labors but the most of his wealth to the work of converting the natives to Christianity. Not long since he wrote to a German gentleman in New York with whom he had a slight acquaintance. The gentleman being sick, his daughter, a lady of ardent piety and member of a Baptist Church, acted as amanuensis, and replied for him.—This led to a correspondence between the parties. Esteem ripened into love; photographs were exchanged, and the missionary made an offer of his hand and heart. His proposal was accepted, and he is now on his way home to fulfill the engagement. The lady possesses some $10,000 in her own right. She will accompany her husband to his field of labor, and will grant the larger portion of her money to the work to which her life is hereafter to be cheerfully devoted.

Very little seems to have leaked out of the Democratic consultation at Albany. One account says that the prevailing view was against sweeping changes in State legislation, concerning municipal excise and kindred matters. This is understood to be the idea of Gov. Hoffman, and he has called this meeting prior to the preparation of his message for the purpose of securing support in advance for his position.

Judge Fowler, nominated by the Democratic Union men in New York, for Civil Justice, in accepting the nomination, remarked that for twenty-eight years he had been a Democrat and that he had voted twenty-eight times with the Democratic party. This was the [illegible], for one of the faithful, who growled out, "What's the use of talking about twenty-eight times in a life! I voted thirty times in one day. What ought I to get?" To this question no [illegible] appears to have been made.

New Method of Extracting Teeth Without Pain.
Dr. E. T. WASGATT,
Surgeon Dentist,

Has purchased an apparatus for producing local anaesthesia by the vapor of ether, invented by the celebrated DR. B. W. RICHARDSON, of London.

By using this instrument, the patient gets rid of the dread of taking ether, for the spray is only applied to the teeth and gums, and does not affect the patient in the least. DR. WASGATT has been using the ether spray for the past few weeks with marked success, extracting six to eight teeth at one sitting, and his patients say they never will take ether when they can get the other spray applied to the gums.

Consumption can be Cured.
Read the Evidence.

"Facts are stubborn things," and it is to facts alone that it is desired to direct the attention of the readers of this article.

Many years of severe and thorough practical trial have demonstrated beyond the peradventure of a doubt the fact that the medicines prepared by me, and known as SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS, SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC, and SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, have proved extraordinarily successful in the cure of diseases of the pulmonary organs, or what is usually termed CONSUMPTION.

I am fully aware that there are many persons whose prejudices rule them so completely that "proofs strong as Holy Writ" would fail to convince them of the efficacy of my remedies, and that there are others who, under no circumstances, could be prevailed upon to admit their merits, simply because such an admission would prove detrimental to their particular personal interests.

Fortunately for the welfare of mankind, these doubting people form a comparatively small portion of the community at large. They are to be found here and there, but, compared with the great mass of the world's population, their numbers are so small that I dismiss them, and address myself to those who are willing to listen to the dictates of reason, and who are disposed to admit the strong logic of well established facts.

We are told almost daily that Consumption, the scourge of the American people, is incurable; that a man whose lungs are diseased must be given over to die; that he must abandon hope; and that the arrangement of his temporal as well as spiritual affairs should claim his earliest attention. If there were not facts as undeniable as that the sun will shine in a clear heaven at midday to controvert these random and not unfrequently harmful assertions, I should feel unwilling to take up the gage of battle against them; but fortified with results—facts—which neither theory nor mere assertion can overturn, I propose to prove that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED, and that the medicines I prepare—THE MANDRAKE PILLS, SEAWEED TONIC, and PULMONIC SYRUP—will, if used in strict accordance with the directions; in a majority of cases effect that which the faculty pronounces impossible—they will cure Consumption.

An ounce of solid fact is worth a pound of theory. Let me, therefore, present the facts connected with my own individual experience. Many years ago, I was a confirmed consumptive, and like thousands of other unfortunates, was given up to die. Eminent physicians pronounced my case a hopeless one, and told me if I had any preparations to make for the final solemn event, that I had better make them speedily. I believed this just as confidently as did the persons who thus affectionately informed me that my days were numbered, and that recovery was impossible. Still, the desire to live lingered in my bosom. I was young, and clung to life with the same tenacity that young men, and old men too, ordinarily do. I did not feel willing to abandon hope as long as a single vestige of it remained. I had full faith in the sad information conveyed to me by my physicians, but still there was a lingering belief that something could be done, though I knew not in what direction to seek for the much-desired relief.

It was at this gloomy and eventful period of my history that I first learned of the roots and herbs from which my remedies for this dreaded disease are now prepared. I procured and used them, and to the utter amazement of all—physicians, friends and neighbors—began to improve. My entire system commenced to undergo a complete renovation. Expectoration, which formerly had been difficult and painful, now became comparatively easy. I threw off daily large quantities of offensive yellow matter. At the same time my long-lost appetite returned. I ate freely of such food as was palatable to me, and which was at the same time nutritious and wholesome. Expectoration became less copious and less offensive; exhausting night sweats ceased; the racking and harrassing cough abated; the fever broke; the pain departed; flesh planted itself on my sadly wasted frame, and with flesh came strength and full health. From a mere skeleton I became a stout, strong, robust man, and I have maintained both strength and flesh to this day. I weigh two hundred and thirty-five pounds; I am blest with an appetite vouchsafed to but few men, while my digestive organs are amply equal to all the requirements of a healthful condition of my system.

Now, be it remembered all these wonderful changes were wrought by the use of the medicines I prepare—MANDRAKE PILLS, SEAWEED TONIC and PULMONIC SYRUP. A cure seemingly so miraculous naturally created astonishment in the minds of those who knew me. I was literally besieged on all sides. I had visitors daily who besought me to give them the remedies which had wrought the wonderful restoration and had wrested me from the very jaws of death. Letters were received by scores importuning me to impart the secret and inform the writers where the specifics for consumption could be obtained. Others who were too weak to travel, not satisfied with writing, sent for and consulted me in regard to their cases. To all these applications I responded as I was able.

I had fully regained my health, and gratitude for the happy result prompted me to turn my attention to the science of medicine, with the hope of thereby being able to be of service to my suffering fellow creatures. I devoted myself closely to my studies, and more especially to that branch of them relating to the terrible disease from which I had suffered so long and so much. I investigated it in all its fearful phases, in order to assure myself that my case was not an exceptional one. The closer my investigations the more satisfactory were my conclusions. I felt convinced that tens of thousands of my fellow-creatures were dying annually from consumption whose cases were not as desperate and apparently hopeless as mine had been, and I argued from this that remedies which had proven so effective with me would prove equally so with others. I prepared my medicines in a pleasant and attractive form, and announced them to the world. The results are well known. Thousands of suffering men, women and children, who were on the way to the grave, have been cured, and are to-day living evidences of the fact that CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED; and I think I may say, without arrogating to myself any more than is justly my due, that I have had as much experience in the treatment of consumption as any other person in the country, and that my success has been wonderfully great.

Let the reader remember that these are not mere fancied statements. They are positive living facts, of which I am the living evidence.

There is an old adage which says: "What has been done may be done." I have been completely cured of consumption by the remedies I now offer to the public. Thousands of others have testified to similar happy results from their use, and thousands of others still might be benefitted as I have been could they but be prevailed upon to try the virtue of The Mandrake Pills, Seaweed Tonic and Pulmonic Syrup. All that is necessary to convince the most skeptical of their merits is a fair trial.

Full directions accompany each of the medicines so that it is not absolutely necessary that patients should see me personally, unless they desire to have their lungs examined. For this purpose I am professionally at my PRINCIPAL OFFICE, No. 15 North Sixth street, corner of Commerce, EVERY SATURDAY. [illegible]

Advice is given without charge, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the price is five dollars.

Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic each $1 50 per bottle, or $7 50 a half dozen. Mandrake Pills, 25 cents per box.

CABLE NEWS

London, Dec. 2—The Times considers the policy to be adopted on Irish questions It says—

"If we are prepared to abandon altogether the exercise of our functions we must stop the developement of Irish demands. We cannot excuse ourselves from guilt in allowing such mischievous delusions to be propagated. If we leave it to be inferred that our legislation will be limited only by demands of peasants of Ireland, we cannot free ourselves from blame if contempt of law ripens into an outburst of organized violence against authority and order We must declare reform in the land laws in the next session of Parliament, but in the meantime the authority of the law must be maintained and infractions thereof punished.

SOCIAL REUNION. Upon invitation of the Directors of the Bangor Oldtown & Milford Railroad Co, the employees of the road to the number of about fifty, with a few invited guests, sat down to fine farewell supper at the Penobscot Exchange last evening After the good things provided by Mr Woodard had been fully and freely discussed, remarks were made by J P Veazie, Esq, President, C V Lord, Superintendent, E S Farrar, Agent, and Mr Jas Taney, Engineer of the road, Mr Plummer of Upper Stillwater. who has been in the employ of the Company for twenty eight years. Mr Gerrish Ass't Superintendent of the E & N A Railroad, Alderman J F Rawson, and others Mr. Taney gave some interesting statistics in relation to the history of the road, stating the singular fact that the road commenced to run on the 30th of Nov, 1836, and made its last trip on the 30th of Nov., 1869, being thirty three years to a day. Mr. Gerrish gave some interesting information in relation to the history of railroads in this county from the time of the first experimental trip of a locomotive in 1828 to the present time, and showing the improvements which have been made The employees of the road spoke uniformly of the kindness which they have received at the hands of those who have had control of the road. and the Directors bore testimony to the faithfulness of the employees, to which was due the credit for the success the road has met with and its freedom from accident and while regretting the necessity which turned them out of employment at this season of the year expressed their belief that their good record would soon furnish them with similar employment upon other roads. After an evening of pleasant conversation the meeting broke up with three rousing cheers for the Bangor, Oldtown & Milford Railroad Company, and the company separated never to meet again in the same relations to each other, of employers and employed The following sentiments were offered by one of the company

Mr Nathan T. Swan the genial, gentle manly, obliging and efficient Conductor — When his last train is made up his last fares collected, and his brakes put hard down at his last station, may he receive a through pass (dead-head of course,) to that good country from whence no return tickets are issued, and to which only those who conduct themselves (and others) well here below can gain admittance

SHIPWRECK ON LONG ISLAND. A correspondent of the Ellsworth American at Long Island says that on Saturday last about noon, during the heavy SE gale they discovered a large brig standing towards the Island. She was rolling heavily and the sea made a complete breach over her she stood in and went through the breakers off Gooseberry Point and anchored half a mile NW from the island. Shortly after anchoring a signal of distress was set, but owing to the heavy sea and increased violence of the gale it was impossible to board her with the means at hand. About 4 p m the gale having moderated, Capt W B. Thurlow, of schr Little Annie of Deer Isle, made the attempt and succeeded in boarding her Captain T and crew are entitled to much credit for this act, as it was blowing a gale at the time, and the sea was making a complete breach over the vessel She proved to be the brig John Lewis of St John, N B, waterlogged at sea, decks swept, &c Capt. T remained by her until after dark, supplied them with provisions, light, fire, &c, when he came in, after taking off part of the crew, who were partially disabled from hardship and exposure The sight presented on board was pretty hard—things being generally smashed and mixed up Captain B T Carter, master of the brig, said he sailed from St John Sunday, Nov 14th and on Wednesday, when about 30 miles SE from New South Shoal light ship took a heavy SE gale, got his vessel under short sail, but found she labored hard owing to the heavy deckload, (she was loaded with shooks and her deckload was piled to the top of the forward house) and made considerable water, could not free her ordered the pumps sounded and found four feet water in the hold kept her away, and in fifteen minutes she filled, deckload was washed away, hatches, boat, water casks and every moveable thing on deck swept away, cabin and forecastle filled and washed out, lived on top of the after house and subsisted on salt pork and raw potatoes from Wednesday noon until boarded by Capt Thurlow, excepting a few hours on Friday when they got fire by means of a burning glass made from a lens of the captain s glass The correspondent concludes

This is the third vessel which has required assistance here this season, all three had to be boarded in a heavy sea and with a corresponding risk of life Some provision ought to be made for saving life and property, and a good life boat is certainly needed Had not Captain Thurlow been here providentially some of the crew on board the brig must have perished as they were completely exhausted and disabled

Miscellany.

'EVER OF THEE.' A sad story is connected with the name of the writer of the beautiful song, 'Ever of Thee,' which has been sung and admired by so many in this country and in Europe.

Foley Hall was a gentleman by birth and education. Wealthy in his own right, with large expectations, he led a heedless life—not choosing his associates, but allowing himself to be drawn into the society of the vicious. His property soon disappeared, and he was left without resources sufficient to buy his daily bread. His musical talents had been highly cultivated, but as he never needed them, he scarcely knew to what degree they could be made available. In his distress, however, he wrote his charming song, 'Ever of Thee.' A London publisher gave him one hundred dollars for it, but that amount with such a spendthrift, would not last long. He wrote other songs, but the money not coming as fast as he wished, in a weak moment he forgot the name of his publisher, and although every effort was made—even by the publisher—to save him, it was of no use, and poor Foley Hall went to Newgate, and died broken hearted before his trial came on.

VERY SINGULAR COINCIDENCES. It is a singular, but not less true remark in a late work, that Jefferson was born just eight years after his predecessor Adams; Madison eight years after Jefferson; Monroe eight years after Madison, and John Quincy Adams eight years after Monroe. Another curious fact to be observed, is, that Adams was just sixty-six years old when he retired, Jefferson was sixty six, Madison was sixty six, Monroe was sixty-six, and John Quincy Adams, had he been elected to a second term, would have been sixty six. Adams, Jefferson and Monroe, all died on the 4th of July.

A FEARFUL ACCIDENT. A Detroit dispatch gives the particulars of a recent wonderful perilous balloon ascension by Professor Lamountain, in Michigan, in which the balloon exploded nearly three miles from the earth, and the aeronaut's wonderful escape from death. A gale of wind and sleet was prevailing at the time of the ascension, and carried up Professor Lamountain before he could secure ballast, instruments or grappling irons. The rain and snow accumulated on top of the balloon, froze up the valve, and in attempting to force it open the rope broke at the top. The balloon continued to rise above the storm, where the heavens were bright and clear, but it was intensely cold. Fearing that he would be carried into Lake Michigan the Professor climbed up on the netting from the outside, and tore a hole in the canvas with his teeth, having lost his pocket knife. Both of his hands were frozen.—The balloon began to descend and suddenly exploded, when more than two miles high, with a loud report, opening the silk from the top to bottom. The gas immediately escaped, but the shattered cotton acted as a parachute, and he shortly afterwards found himself lying in the woods, where he lay a short time in an unconscious state badly bruised, but he will recover. Several persons observed the descent and assisted Prof Lamountain in packing up his balloon.

WHERE THE SUN DOES NOT SET. The following graphic passage is from the description of a scene witnessed by Mr Campbell and his party, in the north of Norway, from a cliff one thousand feet above the sea:—The ocean stretched away in silent vastness at our feet, the sound of waves scarcely reached our lookout, away in the north, the huge old sun swung low along the horizon like the slow beat of the pendulum in the tall clock of our grand father's parlor corner. We all stood silent looking at our watches. When both hands came together at twelve midnight, the full round orb hung triumphantly above the wave—a bridge of gold running due north spanned the water between us and him. There he shone in silent majesty, which knew no setting. We involuntarily took off our hats, no word was said. Combine, if you can, the most brilliant sunrise and sunset you ever saw, and its beauties will pale before the gorgeous coloring which now lit up ocean, heaven, and mountain. In half an hour the sun had swung up perceptibly on his beat, the colors changed to those of morning, a fresh breeze rippled over the flood, one songster after another piped up in the grove behind us—we had slid into another day.

ANECDOTE OF THE REBELLION. It is supposed that the following anecdote has never until recently been in print, and it is said to come from a trustworthy source:

'During the memorable battle near Atlanta, on the 22d of July, in which our troops fought first from one side of their fortifications and then on the other, a rebel officer at the head of his men, more daring than his followers, succeeded in getting close up against the Union works, when a certain stalwart Colonel of Iowa Volunteers, begrimed with the smoke of battle, leaped from the narrow parapet, and extending his powerful arms, grasped the gallant rebel by the collar, hoisted him bodily into the Union Lines, and sent him to the rear a prisoner of war. The rebel, who turned out to be Col Lamphey, of the Forty fifth Alabama, died a few weeks afterwards of chagrin at the inglorious way in which he was captured. The captor was Col Belknap of the Fifteenth Iowa, now Secretary of War.

CENTRAL RAILROAD Of Iowa,

THE SEVEN PER CENT GOLD

First Mortgage Bonds!

FREE OF GOVERNMENT TAX

At 95 and Accrued Interest

This road runs through the richest and most thickly settled portion of this magnificent State and is the only link wanting to connect St Louis and S Paul by a direct line 147 miles shorter than any other.

It runs through the great coal fields of Southern Iowa to the North where coal is indispensable and must be carried.

It runs FROM the great lumber regions of the North through a district of country which is destitute of this prime necessity.

It does not RUN THROUGH A WILDERNESS where it would wait for years for a population to give it business, but through a tier of Counties which are now producing about twenty million bushels of grain, most of which is freight for railroads.

Forty five miles are just finished and the Superintendent reports that on the portion open for business the net earnings are more than the interest liabilities.

Sixty miles more are graded and a million and a half of dollars have already been expended on the work.

The mortgage is made to the Farmers Loan and Trust Co., and bonds can be issued only at the rate of $16,000 per mile, or only half the amount upon some other roads. Special security is provided for the principal and for the payment of interest.

First mortgages upon most railroads are the very safest investments, and so far as we can learn there is not a single completed line in the North west which is not only paying [illegible] good dividend upon its stock.

The immense grain and [illegible] carried away, and the lowest [illegible] in ensure a profitable business.

First Mortgage Bonds [illegible] upon a road running through such [illegible] already well settled part of Iowa can well be recommended as a perfectly safe as well as [illegible] able investment. At the present rate [illegible] ten per cent on the investment. Over $[illegible] have already been taken by the Company's officers and others interested in the enterprise. [illegible] lets with maps may be obtained [illegible] will be received in Bangor by

LAWS OF THE UNITED STATES

Passed at the First Session of the Forty First Congress

By the President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas objects of interest to the United States require that the Senate should be convened at twelve o'clock on the twelfth day of April 1869 to receive and act upon such communications as may be made to it on the part of the executive.

Now therefore I, U S GRANT, President of the United States, having considered it my duty to issue this my Proclamation declaring that an extraordinary occasion requires the Senate of the United States to convene for the transaction of business at the Capitol, on the twelfth day of April 1869 at twelve o'clock noon on that day, of which all who shall at that time be entitled to act as members of that body are hereby required to take notice.

Given under my hand and the seal of the United States at Washington the eighth day of April in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty nine and of the Independence of the United States of America the ninety third.

[SEAL] U S GRANT

By the President
HAMILTON FISH, Secretary of State

By the President of the United States of America

A PROCLAMATION

In pursuance of the provisions of the act of Congress approved April 10th 1869, I hereby designate the 6th day of July 1869 as the time for submitting the constitution passed by the convention which met in Richmond, Virginia, on Tuesday the 3d day of December 1867, to the voters of said State registered at the date of such submission viz July 6 1869, for ratification or rejection.

And I submit to a separate vote the fourth clause of section one of article three of said constitution, which is in the following words:

Every person who has been a Senator or Representative in Congress, or elector for President or Vice President, or who held any office, civil or military, under the United States or under any State, who, having previously taken an oath as a member of Congress or as an officer of the United States, or as a member of any State legislature, or as an executive or judicial officer of any State, shall have engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the same, or given aid or comfort to the enemies thereof. This clause shall include the following officers: governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, auditor of public accounts, second auditor, register of the land office, State treasurer, attorney general, sheriffs, sergeant of a city or town, commissioner of the revenue, county surveyors, constables, overseers of the poor, commissioner of the board of public works, judges of the supreme court, judges of the circuit court, judges of the court of hustings, justices of the county courts, mayor, recorder, alderman, councilmen of a city or town, coroners, escheators, inspectors of tobacco, flour, &c., clerks of the supreme, district, circuit, and county courts and of the court of hustings, and attorneys for the Commonwealth: Provided, that the legislature may by a vote of three fifths of both houses, remove the disabilities incurred by this clause from any person included therein by a separate vote in each case.

Postal Convention between the United States and Bremen.

ADDITIONAL ARTICLES.

Agreed upon between the Post Office Department of the United States and the Post Office Department of the Hanseatic Republic of Bremen, modifying the Arrangement entered into by said Post Departments in 1847 for the reciprocal Receipt and Delivery of Mails to be conveyed by the United States and Bremen Lines of Steamers direct between New York and Bremenhaven.

ARTICLE I. The post office of New York shall be the United States office of exchange, and Bremen the office of exchange of the Republic for all mails transmitted under this arrangement.

ARTICLE II. The international correspondence conveyed either by United States or by Bremen steamers as hereinafter stated, between the United States or its Territories, and Bremen, will be subject to the following postage charges, viz:—

Postage on each letter or packet not exceeding half an ounce weight	10 cents
Above half an ounce and not over one ounce	20
Above one ounce but not exceeding two ounces	40

And the postage will increase in this scale of progression, to wit: Additional 20 cents for each additional ounce, or fraction of an ounce.

Payment in advance shall be optional in either country. It shall not, however, be permitted to pay less than the whole rate, and no account shall be taken of the prepayment of any fraction of that rate.

ARTICLE III. All the States belonging to the German Austrian Postal Union, respectively are to have the advantage of the rate of ten cents established by the preceding article, (second) when ever their postage to and from Bremen, for letters to and from the United States, shall be reduced to the uniform rate of five cents, or less. On all correspondence for or from such of said states as shall not so reduce their rates, the charge between the United States and Bremen, by either of the two lines, will be fifteen cents the single rate.

And optional prepayment, a regular progressive scale, &c., upon the same principles as in Article II shall be admitted and observed.

ARTICLE IV. On all letters originating and posted in other countries, beyond the United States, and mailed to, and deliverable in Bremen, or originating and posted in countries beyond Bremen, and mailed to, and deliverable in the United States, or its Territories, the foreign postage (other than that of Bremen, and other than that of the United States) is to be added to the postage stated in Article II or III, as the case may be. And the two Post Office Departments are mutually to furnish each other with all information [illegible] the foreign postage, and the amount thereof must be absolutely prepaid, or must be left unpaid. And until such lists are duly furnished, neither country is to mail to the other any letter from foreign countries beyond it, or for foreign countries beyond the country to which the mail is sent.

ARTICLE V. Newspapers not weighing more than three ounces each may be sent by the United States and Bremen steamers when the whole postage of two cents is prepaid thereon at the mailing office. The postage on pamphlets and magazines, per ounce or fraction of an ounce, shall be one cent, prepayment of which shall likewise be required in both countries. Said newspapers, pamphlets and magazines are to be subject to the laws and regulations of each country, respectively, in regard to their liability to be rated with letter postage when containing written matter or for any other cause specified in said laws and regulations. They must be sent in narrow bands open at the sides or ends.

ARTICLE VI. The postage for which the United States and Bremen Post Offices shall reciprocally account to each other upon letters which shall be exchanged between them shall be established letter by letter, according to the scales of progression determined by the preceding second and third articles as follows, viz:—

The Bremen office shall pay to the United States office for each unpaid letter weighing half an ounce or less, originating in the United States and destined for Bremen, as well as for each letter of like weight prepaid in Bremen and destined for the United States when conveyed under Article II by the United States steamer [illegible] cents

and when by Bremen steamer 5

When conveyed under Article III by United States steamer 14

and when by Bremen steamer 5

The United States office shall pay to the Bremen office for each unpaid letter weighing half an ounce or less originating in Bremen and destined for the United States, as well as for each letter of like weight prepaid in the United States and destined for Bremen when conveyed under Article II by United States steamer 1 cent and when by Bremen steamer [illegible] cents

When conveyed under Article III by United States steamer 1 cent and when by Bremen steamer 10 cents

Respecting the postage for newspapers, pamphlets and magazines received in either country, the whole is to be paid to the United States office when the same are sent by United States steamers, and one half to the United States office and one half to the Bremen office when sent by Bremen steamers.

It is understood and agreed that of the portion of the postage for which the United States office is to account to Bremen, as well as for what Bremen may collect, but one cent a single letter is to go to the benefit of the proprietors of the Bremen line of steamers.

Letter bills and acknowledgments, as well as forms of account shall be [illegible] to conform to these articles.

ARTICLE VII. The accounts between the two departments shall be closed at the expiration of each quarter of the calendar year by quarterly statements and accounts prepared by the General Post Office in Washington and having been examined, compared and settled by the Post Office of Bremen, the balance shall be paid without delay by that department which shall be found indebted to the other. If the balance is in favor of Bremen it shall be paid over by the United States at Bremen, and if in favor of the United States it shall be paid over by Bremen at Washington or to the General Post Office at London to the credit of the United States as the Postmaster General of the United States shall direct. Neither office is to charge the other any commission on any payment on the balance. The 50 per cent commission on the letter of Bremen stipulated in Article [illegible] arrangement [illegible] to which [illegible] article takes effect, [illegible] transit [illegible] declared in Article VI of the present convention.

ARTICLE VIII. The steamers of the two lines shall be required to convey all dead and returned letters and the official communications of the post departments of the United States and Bremen free of charge.

ARTICLE IX. This arrangement which supersedes temporary arrangement of 6th July 1853 is to go into effect on the 15th of August 1853 and is to be continued in force until annulled by mutual consent or by either post department after the expiration of three months' previous notice to the other, and it may also cease whenever the steamer [illegible] cease running.

In witness whereof we have hereto set our names and affixed the seals of our respective offices this 4th day of August one thousand eight hundred and fifty three, at the city of Washington.
